

Overview and Eligibility

The Hal Williams Hardinge Award (Hardinge Award) in the field of industrial minerals is made to recognize outstanding achievement which has benefited the industry. The achievement so recognized may have been accomplished through writing, teaching, research or administration, resulting in new discoveries, in better products, in new techniques, in new uses, wider markets, improved management, or through wider dissemination of knowledge.

There are no limitations regarding nationality or membership in the AIME Member Societies, but preference is given to members. If a committee member is nominated, they will either find a replacement committee member so that they can resign for the year or remove their nomination until their term is up. Candidate must be living or passed away prior to May 1st of the nomination year.

No AIME Major Award winner is eligible to be nominated for another AIME Major Award until 9 years shall have elapsed, and the nomination support package shall conspicuously reference work in a new field or significant new accomplishments in the field for which the original award was made. (The AIME Major Awards are the Charles F. Rand Memorial Gold Medal, Robert Earl McConnell Award, James Douglas Gold Medal, Hal Williams Hardinge Award, Erskine Ramsay Medal, Robert H. Richards Award, William Lawrence Saunders Gold Medal, Benjamin F. Fairless Award and Anthony F. Lucas Gold Medal.)
